

What Technology Wants by Kevin Kelly

Is technology a living breathing organism who has its own desires? Kelly's books traces the evolutionary history of humans and technology to find out the answer to this question.

303.483 KEL

Explore Human Evolution

On the Origin of Species by Charles Darwin

The original work that is still causing controversy, learn about our evolution, now with illustrations.

576.82 DAR

Explore Gaming

Reality is Broken by Jane McGonigal

A significant chunk of the populations plays video games. In this book, the author explores how games can help in real life.

306.487
MCG

Explore Computing

A History of Modern Computing by Paul E. Ceruzzi

From Babbage to Turning to Apple and Intel, explore the history of the computer.

004.09 CER

Explore Technophobia

Against the Machine by Lee Siegel

Is the Internet bad for our thinking? Siegel outlines how the Internet is changing everything about our social structure.

303.483 SIE

Explore Information Technology

The Master Switch By Tim Wu

An examination of the information industry, from Hollywood to Google, he warns that they will be usurped by malevolent interests.

384.041 WU

Explore Inventions

Scientific American Inventions and Discoveries by Rodney Carlisle

A history of the invention from prehistoric times to the modern day. Filled with pictures and fun facts.

306.362 Jor