

FICTION
NEVILLE K

The Fire by Katherine Neville

A chess prodigy finds herself immersed in a quest to find the legendary chess set, the Montglane Service. The set, when set up, spells out the secret to immortality. The search ranges all over the world and readers catch glimpses of historical figures such as Charlemagne, Lord Byron, Isaac Newton, and Napoleon Bonaparte.

Like the Author?

The Eight
by Katherine Neville

Written more than ten years before the Da Vinci Code, this prequel to The Fire, finds Catherine Velis, a computer expert exiled to Algeria by her firm, caught up in a quest to find a legendary chess set. The mystery's answer is at the nexus of musical notation, chess strategy, Fibonacci numbers, and mysticism.

FICTION
NEVILLE K

Like Historical Thrillers?

The Mask of Atreus
By A.J. Hartley

Museum curator Deborah Miller embarks upon an international trek to find a stolen Mycenaean death mask and the bones of a legendary hero. After trips to Greece and Russia plus multiple attempts on her life, she realizes her quest is about more than a mere stolen artwork.

FICTION
HARTLEY A

Want Some Interesting Non-fiction?

The Lost City of Z: A Tale of Deadly Obsession in the Amazon by David Grann

"New Yorker" writer Grann treks into the Amazonian jungle to investigate the mystery of British explorer Colonel Percy Harrison Fawcett, who in 1925 disappeared in an expedition to find the fabled lost city of Z. Grann intersperses accounts of Fawcett's trek with his. This page turner is sure to please the adventurer in all!

918.11
GRA

Haven't Read Dan Brown?

The Lost Symbol
by Dan Brown

Follow protagonist Robert Langdon, a symbologist, on a trek through Masonic Washington D.C. to solve the murder of his mentor and hunt down esoteric wisdom known as the Ancient Mysteries.

FICTION
BROWN D

Like a Little Archeology in Your Thriller?

Labyrinth
by Kate Mosse

Alice, an archeological dig volunteer gets drawn into a mystery and becomes a target after finding skeletons in the Pyrenees mountains. This story weaves in and out of an interlocking story about Crusaders and the Holy Grail.

FICTION
MOSSE K

Like a Little Sci-Fi in Your Thriller?

Next
by Michael Crichton

Spin through this mind-bending adventure of sometimes interweaving stories about science, capitalism, biotechnology, genetics, clones, greed, and the law. Crichton takes the reader on a dizzying exploration of a not so distant future.

FICTION
CRICHTON M